Circles is an app to turn ideas into real plans.

Too often, we miss out on events or our plans fall through due to disorganized communication. With busy schedules, keeping track of plans over text can be challenging, and coordinating everyone's availability for an event can feel like a puzzle.

Circles is designed to streamline the planning process to crystallize intentions into concrete details so that events transcend mere discussion. With calendar polling and voting systems, availability and preferences can align more easily when planning. Drawing from personal experiences and widespread feedback, Circles embodies a solution to the perennial struggle of making plans, making socializing more convenient and fulfilling for everyone involved.
